

Terms and conditions

Use of the Oxford Owl free online resources (the Product) is subject to the following terms and conditions:

You do not receive title to the Product. Copyright in the Product, which includes certain images, photographs, video, animations, audio, music and text incorporated in the Product, and including all of the accompanying printed materials (externally linked video excepted), is owned by Oxford University Press and/or its suppliers and is protected by Australian copyright laws. Oxford University Press grants you permission to use the Product subject to the restrictions and terms set out in this document.

You may not:

- modify, adapt, translate, reverse engineer, decompile or disassemble the Product or create derivative works based on the Product
- commercially exploit the Product
- remove or alter any copyright or other proprietary notice or label attached to the Product
- make copies of the Product.

Without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing, you may make photocopies of materials if they are clearly identifiable as being for that purpose.

Warranties

Oxford University Press makes no express warranties about the Product. To the extent permitted by law, Oxford University Press excludes all implied warranties about the Product that would otherwise be implied by law as being part of these terms and conditions. To the extent permitted by law, Oxford University Press excludes all liability for any damage, whether direct, indirect, special or consequential, arising in any way out of the use of or in relation to the Product.

Privacy Policy

You agree that we may process any personal data that you supply to us in accordance with Oxford University Press's Privacy Policy available on Privacy Policy.

Withdrawal of Product

Oxford University Press reserves the right at any time to withdraw the Product or parts of the Product without incurring any liability.